The District

Irvine Ranch Water District (IRWD) is a progressive, values-driven agency, with an international reputation for its leading-edge financial management practices, water recycling program, water use efficiency practices, water banking, urban runoff treatment, and energy generation and storage. Established in 1961 as a California Water District under the provisions of the California Water Code, IRWD is an independent special district serving central Orange County. IRWD provides high-quality drinking water, reliable sewage collection and treatment, ground-breaking recycled water programs, and environmentally sound urban runoff treatment to its customers. As an independent, not-for-profit public agency, IRWD is governed by a publicly elected five-member Board of Directors. The Board is responsible for the District's policies and decision-making. Day-to-day operations are supervised by the General Manager. Additional information can be found at the District's website: www.IRWD.com.

IRWD Corporate Values

Irvine Ranch Water District believes that its values drive the character, culture, and capacity of our organization. IRWD was built on values, and we weave them into the fabric of everything we do. Values are the ingredients in our recipe for both institutional and individual success. They are a code of conduct to promote positive outcomes for others and ourselves. They are more than words on a wall or a website. We live by them every day. We pledge to keep them relevant in an ever-changing world.

The Area

Serving several communities in central Orange County, Irvine Ranch Water District encompasses approximately 181 square miles. IRWD extends from the Pacific Coast to the foothills, with elevations ranging from sea level to 3,200 feet. Orange County is a semi-arid region with a mild climate and an average annual rainfall of 12 to 13 inches. With a population over 3 million, Orange County is the third largest county in California and one of the largest in the United States.

Orange County is known for its numerous tourist attractions, cultural opportunities, Mediterranean climate, beautiful beaches, and large wilderness and natural areas. The County is a leading California business center and home to some of the nation's leading companies in the biotechnical, medical, electronic, computer, information, video gaming, cosmetic, clothing, finance, and other fields.

Outstanding educational opportunities are also available within or near the IRWD service area. Irvine Unified, Newport Mesa Unified, Saddleback Valley Unified, and Tustin Unified are the largest public school districts served by IRWD. There are numerous public and private colleges and universities located locally, including the University of California Irvine, Chapman University, and California State University - Fullerton, among others.
